Season's Greeting - 2017 Happy New Year

Dear Friends,

I am proud to inform you that the objectives set in the action plan have been mainly achieved by means of concrete actions. During this period the IAEC has focussed on the reinforcement of four priority axis connecting with the aims of the network.

As of the increase of the political impact, the IAEC was invited to contribute to the global debate on sustainable development at the 5th UCLG Congress World Summit held in Bogota, Colombia. The Summit saw the adoption of the joint statement on the New Urban Agenda, which was presented at the Habitat III Conference.

With the aim of reinforcing its visibility internationally and to give recognition to its members the IAEC launched an Award to Best Practices on Better Living Together. The city of Saha-gu was one of the 3 winning cities selected by the Jury and was invited to present their initiative at a special session held on the occasion of our 14th International Congress held in Rosario, Argentina. The celebration of this Congress was a good opportunity to reinforce the cooperation between our members, and for the exchange of experiences and best practices. My acknowledgments to the IAEC Asia-Pacific Region for the active participation of its members on this edition.

It was also in 2016 that the IAEC General Assembly agreed to declare November 30th the International Day of the Educating City. More than 120 Mayors worldwide raised their voice in favour of inclusive quality education and lifelong learning opportunities for all.

I encourage you to keep active in this commitment so as to inspire more local leaders in the Asia-Pacific region. I am convinced that the Educating Cities are contributing positively to face the enormous challenges ahead. May this continue to be the case in the New Year!

Hot Issues from 2016 IAEC Asia-Pacific Network

① The 14th IAEC Congress

The 14th IAEC Congress in Rosario, Argentina, ended with great success. Around 1,200 representatives from 113 cities of 23 countries across the world attended the 4-day event from June 1, 2016 under the theme 'Living Together in Our Cities', including Lee Young-ho, Director of Bureau for Planning and Budget of Changwon and Lee Kyung-hoon, the Mayor of Saha-gu, Busan as a representative of Asia-Pacific Network. 27 representatives including 8 municipal governments of Korea attended the opening ceremony, workshops and thematic study visits to expand international educating network through active interaction with participants from all over the world. Especially, as Gamcheon Culture Village at Saha-gu, Busan was one of the 3 winners of the 1st Educating Cities' Award of IAEC, it offered a great chance to promote good practice, representing Asia-Pacific Network. In addition, the Mayor of Saha-gu was invited to the round table meeting of mayors to highlight active participation of Asia-Pacific members. Besides, Changwon announced that Korean member cities will celebrate the 1st International Day of the Educating City with a joint event and 6 cities including Gun-san made presentations on local good practices at workshops. The 15th IAEC Congress will be held in Cascais, Portugal, in 2017.

Review on participation of the 14th IAEC Congress

Mr. Lee Kyung-hoon
Mayor of Saha-gu, Busan *

I am Lee Kyung-hoon, Mayor of Saha-gu, Busan Metropolitan City in Korea and I am honored to deliver my remark for you.

With 113 member cities from 23 countries attending, the 14th IAEC Congress was held in Rosario, Argentina, in June 2016. Undoubtedly, it achieved a huge success.

In particular, Saha-gu received the 1st Edition of the Educating Cities' Award. Also, the construction of Pagoda Tree Spring Park in Goe-jeong was designated as an excellent case at the workshop space, where we had the opportunity to introduce our efforts to create a leading educating city to many distinguished participants.

The award was given to the "Creative Regeneration, Gamcheon Culture Village" in acknowledgment to the project's contribution to the social, cultural and economic regeneration of an underprivileged village through culture and arts by setting a participatory process that strengthened the capacities of its inhabitants, the creation of new social bonds and the sense of belonging.

Also, the IAEC secretariat invited us to represent the Asia-Pacific region. We had the privilege to participate in the Roundtable with Mayors, a special forum of six mayors from the world's leading Educating Cities, to explain our seven agendas to create a space of co-prosperity. We also introduced our varied institutional frameworks to make an inclusive community in which individual and cultural differences are recognized.

I believe the event served as a meaningful venue, where we informed the world of our achievements. All these efforts have consolidated Saha's status as a leading Educating city.

In order to create a sustainable Educating city, I will continue to attract active and voluntary participation from relevant institutions, citizens, and the civil society.

To create and enhance Educating Cities, I propose that all the IAEC member cities make concerted efforts. I wish the development of our member cities and the good health of you all.

Thank you.

Mr. Kim Yang-won
Deputy Mayor of Gunsan *

This IAEC International Congress made me feel and think a lot, being Gunsan, a trading port city of Northeast Asia, the opposite side of the globe.

One of the most impressive of these was the urban regeneration policy of Rosario, which was very similar to the project promoted by Gunsan, a city of modern history and culture.

It gave me a very strong impression that the old grain warehouse was recycled and used as an international conference venue, and this explained a lot why Rosario set the theme "Living Together in Our Cities" for the International Congress of Educating Cities.

I was able to feel the warmth of the citizens of Rosario through the spectacular performance at the Congress. Our city made a presentation about the policy 'Find and Visit Lifelong Education' at the workshop space. It was a great experience to share educational policy with other member cities.

Gilles Lipovetsky, a French educational philosopher, emphasized that a city should actively undertake its responsibilities because education becomes basics for the life of citizens in the opening lecture on "Educating Cities, Creative Cities : Ways for Living Together." Being responsible for city policy operation, the lecture found a strong echo in my heart.

I would like to express my gratitude again to the city authorities of Rosario, who meticulously prepared the International Congress, and to the smiles of the volunteers who warmly welcomed our party throughout the Congress. "Muchas Gracias!"

Mr. Lee, Weonyul
Deputy Mayor of Gyeongsan *

Hello, I am Lee Weonyul, Deputy Mayor of Gyeongsan City. Gyeongsan took part in the 14th International Congress of the International Association of Educating Cities (IAEC) during which we had the occasion to strengthen our international network, share good practices and contribute to the emergence of a global educational environment.

I personally learned a lot of different cultures from many other countries. From now on I will try to participate in as many IAEC events as possible to expand the global network and promote the leading lifelong learning programs of Gyeongsan.

Mr. Lee Young-ho, Director of Bureau for Planning and Budgetary at Changwon *

Hello, I am Lee Young-ho, Director of Bureau for Planning & Budgetary at Changwon.

It was a great pleasure for me to attend the 14th IAEC Congress in Rosario, Argentina, as a representative of a city member of the IAEC Executive Committee and chair city of Asia-Pacific Network.

It was a long trip of 40-hour flight, almost half of the globe. However, it was a great experience for me to interact with the representatives of 113 domestic and foreign member cities and learn diverse culture and great practices. As a coordinating city of IAEC Network, Changwon will save no effort and will actively participate in Executive Committee meetings and Congresses.

② 2016 H1 IAEC Asia-Pacific Technical Meeting

As coordinating city of IAEC Asia-Pacific Network with 28 member cities of 6 countries, Changwon City hosted 2016 H1 IAEC Technical Meeting on January 28 and asked for proactive participation of IAEC member cities from Korea in the upcoming 14th IAEC Congress. Moreover, Changwon officials introduced the details about the Changwon-UNESCO joint meeting to be held in Phuket from May 9 to 11, 2016, which is the first of its kind for local governments, to encourage the participation of IAEC member cities in Korea and promote IAEC to representatives from many cities in the Asia-Pacific region in an effort to expand its membership.

③ 2016 H2 IAEC Asia-Pacific Technical Meeting

Changwon presided IAEC (International Association of Educating Cities) Asia Pacific Network Technical Meeting on September 9 (Friday) alongside with 2016 Changwon Lifelong Learning & Science Festival. For this meeting, over 30 representatives and officials from 23 member cities including Saha-gu, visited Changwon, the city of culture and Arts and at the same time an international Educating City, to discuss details of the 1st IAEC International Day of the Educating City and the 8th IAEC Asia-Pacific Network regional meeting in 2018.

conference promoted debate and discussions on the theme 'The New Paradigm of Community Learning Centre through Online Lifelong Education towards the Sustainable Society.' In a media conference attended by 26 media agencies of Thailand, Park Jae-hyun, the 1st Deputy Mayor of Changwon explained why they chose Phuket as the venue of the conference saying "It is essential to expand network with global communities for tourism and high-tech industry projects of Changwon." The Deputy Mayor also shared the progress Changwon has been making in the arena of international education with 26 local media, saying "Since the foundation of Changwon International Education Centre in Cambodia in 2012, we have been striving to expand humanitarian support projects for the region to contribute to educational development of Asia-Pacific." During the thematic meeting under the title of 'Types of Online Lifelong Education and Local Education Centers', Changwon gave presentation on the status and scale of various online lifelong education programmes together with diverse educational contents, leveraging the latest technologies of the city. Besides, an exhibition booth showing tourism attractions and lifelong learning devices and facilities of Changwon was widely welcomed, attracting 190 visitors on the site.

Among the participants from 25 Asia-Pacific countries, Ms. ZhangLi, Director of Global Cooperation in Asia-Pacific Region from Harbin, China, said "I am very impressed by Changwon's competence to host this large-scale international event outside of the nation." and added "I would like to invite Changwon to the Harbin International Ice and Snow Sculpture Festival scheduled for January 2017. I am looking forward to seeing you at the festival." Participants from IAEC member cities said "We are very impressed that a municipal city like Changwon can host such an international level event." and added "Many local cities of Korea would like to congratulate Changwon's success and this will be an exemplary case for other cities that are considering hosting of an international event or conference".

Gunsan Lifelong Learning Centre Recently Opened – A wide open opportunity for lifelong learning

Gunsan is an international trading port city on the west coast of the Republic of Korea and has an area of 681.151km<sup>2</sup> and a population of 278,400. It is a centre of Korea's modern history and culture, where automobile and shipbuilding industry has well developed. A renovation project is being carried out to build ports and industrial complexes in an area of 4091km<sup>2</sup> which is enclosed by the world's longest seawall measuring at 33.9km. It is a very unique city where the past, present and future coexist.

Gunsan is rapidly emerging as a centre of future international trade and logistics and aims at becoming a "Child Friendly City" and a "Lifelong Learning City that Grows Together". The city government promoted various lifelong learning policies to improve the quality of life of citizens and it is recognized as a front-runner in the field of literacy education in Korea.

Gunsan is promoting various lifelong education policies to encourage community spirit and enhance quality of life through the fulfillment and spread of citizens' lifelong learning needs. Currently, there is one lifelong learning centre, 61 lifelong educational institutions, 90 lifelong learning clubs are in operation with 410 instructors. The citizens can access to an information site on lifelong learning (ll.gunsan.go.kr) and an online lifelong learning centre (cyberedu.gunsan.go.kr) for free online education and lifelong learning information.

In order to revitalize lifelong education in the city, since 2014 Gunsan began the construction of a 4-story building for lifelong learning with a total floor area of 1,566m<sup>2</sup> on a site of 828.2m<sup>2</sup> with a total project cost of KRW 3.8 billion. It was completed in September 2016.

From October, Gunsan is conducting test operation of 26 lifelong education courses including foreign language, coffee dripping, and nail art. It will expand the curriculum from 80 to 100 in 2017.

In addition, Gunsan plans to establish lifelong learning centres at each community in order to implement lifelong learning policies tailored to its characteristics.

The weekend school of Experience with Grandparents & grandchildren

The Personalized Lifelong Learning Programme targets grandparents which are taking care of their grandchildren. ## We support your happy marriage!

On July 13th 2016, Dalseo-gu District of Daegu City launched a Marriage Promotion Team for the first time in the nation in order to provide education, information, and services about marriage such as awareness information, wedding preparation and counselling on married life. The team is doing its best to promote a good marital culture by giving information on the advantages of having a healthy family and by underlining the importance of forming a family as well as by planning and undertaking policies for the increasing number of single-person households. It also works to raise awareness that marriage is an option, not an obligation as well as to address various issues concerning low birth rate.

Andong Hangul Class “80-year Old 1st Graders Published A Book of Poetry”

City of Andong (Mayor Kwon Young-se) hosted an event to celebrate the publication of a poetry book “The Flower of Letters Bloom in Literacy Education” written by old students of the “Visiting Hangul (Korean Alphabet) Class” at the Andong Dam World Water Forum Centre in a ceremony held last November 12 which included poetry performances and an exhibition.

The book is a collection of poems written by Elders for an adult literacy class essay contest. Although they were not expert handwriters, elders wrote their own poems. These creative pieces have been collected for a publication. A 2-week exhibition was also organized to share the blooming new literary life of 68 elder students. Their children were invited to celebrate the meaningful moment together.

Effective Educational Support System for Disabled Adults

The educational support provided by the government for disabled people guarantee effective education from toddlers to teenagers, yet it is rather insufficient for adults. Along this line, people having developmental disabilities hardly have the opportunity to engage in lifelong education.

To face this situation, it has been proposed to establish an administrative support system with personalized programs for disabled adults so that we can help them to find their own talents and hobbies and continue to provide them the opportunity to engage in activities.
